What is the Resident Safety and Wellbeing Forum?

The forum is for home-owners, tenants in social and private rental.

Why should I get involved?

There's a lot of discussion at the government level regarding climate change and fire safety. What does this mean and how will this impact you, your families and your community? How and what do we do to work together to create solutions?

This is your opportunity to not only have your say but make a true difference. You will design and deliver this forum. It's the platform to share what matters and explore what safety and wellbeing means.

Scotland is the first nation in the UK to take this initiative in establishing this type of residents' forum, which will be hosted by TPAS Scotland and Aico.

Who will listen?

The Scottish Government, Housing sector and delivery organisations.
